VOL. XXXIV., NO. 12.

THE BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE, FRIDAY, MAY 14, 1943.

YOUR DUTY BUY VICTORY BONDS!

Many of our boys have volunteered for overseas service, realizing full well that it may mean Total Sacrifice. When you are asked to buy Victory Bonds, you are not even making a Partial Sacrifice. How can you call anything a sacrifice when you are receiving a benefit? By taking money out of your savings account in the bank and buying Victory Bonds, you are simply showing good business sense. You will receive double the interest on your bonds that you would receive on your savings account.

The civilian, Heroes are the poor class of people who are scraping nickels and dimes together to buy a $50 Victory Bond. They are really making a sacrifice and are Backing the Attack. What are you doing?

All indications point to a new second front. More guns, tanks, planes, ships and bullets will be needed, and your Victory Bonds will help to supply this need. Step out and buy a Bond today. Don't wait for a canvasser to call on you. You can buy Bonds at any bank, treasury house or at your local Victory Loan headquarters.

A telephone call to the local Loan headquarters will bring a salesman to your house on the double.

PEOPLE OF BLAIRMORE - FRANK ... about this matter of VICTORY BONDS WE'RE NOT DOING OUR SHARE

THE SALE of Victory Bonds in this community since the opening of the Fourth Victory Loan has not been encouraging.

We are not buying the new Victory Loan in anything like the way we should be buying them.

A quota was set up for this community—and from present indications we will not meet that quota.

The quota is a modest one, too—an amount that should be easy to meet—a quota that can be met without inconvenience to any if each one does what he should do.

As a matter of fact, there should be no quotas in connection with the sale of Victory Bonds. The war is a matter of life and death. We haven't won the war yet. If we give the matter proper thought each one of us will buy Victory Bonds with all our available cash—and as much more—on the instalment plan—as we can pay for in the next six months. And we will scrimp to save to do this.

FOURTH VICTORY LOAN
AT $959,000,000 MARK

As we go to press, word is received from Ottawa stating that the latest cumulative total of subscriptions to the Fourth Victory Loan as at noon Thursday, May 13, had reached $959,707,800, as compared with $772,281,300 at the same stage of last loan.

The loan is still short of its objective, and a most urgent appeal is being made to put the loan over the top. The objective is $1,100,000,000.

Banks and treasury branches will keep open Saturday afternoon for two hours to accommodate late subscribers.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE
AT UNITED CHURCH

Mother's Day was fittingly observed by the combined junior and senior Sunday schools of Central United church, Blairmore, in the church last Sunday morning, when a programme was given by the scholars.

Jackie Patterson led in the Scripture readings. Some of the outstanding items in the programme were two choruses by the junior school, "Lord, I Want to be a Christian" and "Jesus Loves the Little Children." First place winners in their respective classes at the recent musical festival, Rita Bonneau rendered a solo, "Mother, My Dear," and two boys, Raymond Blas and Billy Womersley, sang respectively "In the Garden" and "My Mother." A poem, "So long as there are homes to which men turn," by Elsie Arrol, and an anthem by the senior C.G.I.T. girls, "O happy home where Thou art loved the dearest."

A colorful presentation of flowers to the oldest mother in the congregation by girls of the "Explorers" class was made to Mrs. Rachel Hadwell, in her eighty-first year.

The superintendent of the junior school, Mrs. D. A. Howe, very interestingly recalled the story of the early home influence in the life of David Livingstone. The Sunday school teachers, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. S. G. Banman, Miss Dorothy Moore and Miss Dorothy Hamilton, helped in the training of the children and young people. Lloyd Pinkney and Bobby Dau received the offering. Miss Ruth Arrol gave excellent service as organist.

REG'LAR FELLERS—A New Idea

WESTERN GIRLS

Many Are Engaged In Important Work In The East

There are a lot of Western Canadian girls in Eastern Canadian war plants and more arriving all the time.

We were in St. Catharines, Ont., recently at the very busy McKinnon Industries, and while there were struck with the fine women from the West who were energetically helping the war effort. There were hundreds and this condition is repeated at many Eastern war plants.

They come from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta mostly and the majority have never worked away from home before.

Their chief problem was that of adjustment to their startlingly new surroundings in a place of plant and away-from-home living quarters and being on their own financially. They have shown themselves entirely capable of making their own way in the world of industry and have settled into the Garden City community with easy adaptability. All have found new friends and many have married boys they met since coming East.

These young Westerners are a fine group of healthy, wholesome girls. The ailment most prevalent (especially around the Christmas season) is homesickness. Anticipating this their company arranged special dinner parties and dances to help dispel their longing for the familiar faces and scenes of home. All are looking forward to the joys of springtime in the Niagara Peninsula with its blossom-laden fruit trees and luxuriant vegetation.

A great number of the Western girls are in engineering operations which require both intelligence and manual dexterity in the manufacture of radio devices and detonators which flow off McKinnon assembly lines to supply the fighting fronts.

Thinking you might be interested in seeing some of them at work we enclose their photos—do you know the girls?—(Editor).

GARDEN NOTES

War Gardens

There has been a good deal of publicity in the newspapers and over the radio and television in the war gardens. Quite a lot of this publicity originates in the United States, and while the information is highly suitable for our neighbors it may not be quite so applicable to our Canadian conditions. One should be careful in using varieties mentioned. Many of these are not obtainable in Canada, so start with what you know. The reason that they have not been tested and approved by Canadian authorities.

Garden Enemies

Wrecks, insects and diseases are the natural enemies of the garden. If countered quickly by continuous cultivation, some quick-acting commercial fertilizer and various sprays and dusts, there will be little trouble. The main thing is to start the counter attack before the enemies get their offensive underway.

It is best to start with, for instance, to do potatoes, and if done just as soon as the second set of leaves develop and followed again at intervals of two weeks during the early period of growth, there will be no trouble. The same is true with mildew on roses and other plants, with attacks of aphids, wilt and the various insects that prey on so many of our cultivated plants.

Thorow and early cultivation will soon check weeds and will encourage growth of the things we are trying to grow.

At the time of sowing of the first cultivation, little garden fertilizer is added carefully, close to, but not actually touching, the plants, favorable growth will be further encouraged.

Still Time To Plant

In any well-ordered garden there will be a place for the vegetable garden. It is best to start in June or even right up to July. Here should be planted those vegetables which are wanted for use in the early fall when in too many gardens practically nothing is left to eat except stock lines like potatoes and those late maturing vegetables that are not ready before late August. Any time is still early to start a little garden, beans, carrots, beets, and in fact about half the vegetables that can be grown in Canada. In most parts of the country it will not be too late to continue sowing things right up to the first of July. Even if we do run into a drought, some of this will come along and be appreciated and the cost of the seeds amounts to only a few cents.

PETER AND JOHN PREACH TO SAMARITANS

Golden text: Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already unto harvest. John 4:35.

Lesson: Acts 8:2-25.

Devotional reading: Psalm 96:1-9.

Explanations and Comments

Death of Stephen, and Persecution of the Early Disciples led by Saul, Acts 7:54-60.

Philip Preaches in the City of Samaria, Acts 8:1-13. Among those who were driven from Jerusalem by persecution was Philip, one of the seven deacons who had been appointed to help in the work of the church. He is called Philip the Evangelist in Acts 21:8, because of the success of his ministry. While preaching to the Samaritans, Philip met an earthenware vessel, a man named Simon, whom we always call Simon the Sorcerer. He had proclaimed himself to be some great prophet, who had healed the people by his sorcery that they said.

This man is that power of God which is called the "Great." Many legends have grown up about Simon, but the statement of John Mark in his gospel serves credence that in Rome Simon had many followers who worshipped him as God. Men and women of great wealth believed Philip's good tidings concerning the kingdom of God and Jesus Christ, and were baptised. Simon evidently deemed Philip a greater magician than himself, and decided to himself a "bigger" and was baptised.

Peter and John sent to Samaria to investigate the New Departure, Acts 8:14-17.

The Samaritans, being a separate religious community, account for the name given to them by those in Jerusalem. It was decided a new departure for Philip to preach to them, and when the apostles who were said to have been sent to Samaria, preached to them, they believed him and were baptised.

CHAPTER II.

"YOU will be careful, Senor Morgan," suggested the manager. "Colonel Verde is a very wary man who could easily expose us when you colluded with him in the doorway. If you will tell me why you left the hotel in such a hurry, he might be able to smooth out this little misadventure."

Morgan eyed the man sharply. Was this a natural desire to be helpful, or was De Nova fishing for information? After all, if Pfaals was a submarine commander, he had no reason to believe that Morgan was the man prying into their affairs. However, they would soon know. His fingerprints were still on the glass, and De Nova would carry the glass to whom ever was expecting it.

He removed his hands from about the glass and turned to the man. "This Fourth of July weather you have for Christmas, make me look forward to my afternoon off," he grinned apologetically and pushed back his chair. "You will excuse me, Senor Verde?"

"Gracias," said Morgan. "I prefer to talk to Colonel Verde myself." He left the room to enter the dining room, where he was not sure, of course, that Morgan was the man prying into their affairs. Had De Nova whispered a message to Pfaals while the German had been paying his bill?

"Gracias," said Morgan. "I prefer to talk to Colonel Verde myself."

He left the room to enter the dining room, where he was not sure, of course, that Morgan was the man prying into their affairs. Had De Nova whispered a message to Pfaals while the German had been paying his bill?

The dining room was practically deserted, for it was the slack period of the siesta hour. The waiters were all off duty; only De Nova was present to care for such infrequent custom that might turn up at this time of day.

Only one table was occupied; that by a tall individual, whom Morgan knew to be one Don Felix Guillermo, a retired music teacher. Don Felix was eccentric and morose, and not above suspicion. But Morgan was certain that Guillermo had not been in the room when Christopher Pfaals had been there. Pfaals had not secured any information, it had not come from the musician.

A MAN stepped into the dining room and his face lighted up at sight of the American. "Ah, Senor Morgan! You are a real friend to us. You and I shall have the drink, no?"

Morgan could not refuse. Senor Raymundo Verde had been present to the Casa Grande, and Morgan was certain that Guillermo had not been in the room when Christopher Pfaals had been there. Pfaals had not secured any information, it had not come from the musician.

Chris Morgan had only to move his arms to raise the glass he had left on the table. A hand had moved and the content of the one glass into the hand of which Verde himself had drunk. Then Morgan placed is own glass so that it was the one closest to Verde's hand.

The move was swift and simple; Morgan was composed and smiling when Verde apologized for his awkwardness, scrambled to his feet with a failed smile, and, of course, with his head below the level of the table, had been unable to see the transference of the liquid from glass to glass, and his muttered exclamations while on all fours had drawn the faint splash of the whisky. Nor, Morgan was certain, had Don Felix been drinking his newspaper, nor De Nova been reading his book, when he had done.

Morgan left Verde in the dining room, making his way to the elevator, grinning like an idiot who he was. He stopped, however, when he had left a set of fingerprints in some of the rooms he had searched, and that he had been right in his assumption that De Nova had schemed to get his prints.

Next week: Morgan stumbles into a dangerous situation.

Don Felix Guillermo, across the room, bent as if to bring his eyes close to the print of the newspaper. The act accented his face entirely. Without relinquishing his hold on the glass, Morgan shook his head at the damn De Nova. "I have the right to know who he is," he said.

The tone and manner were casual, but inwardly Morgan was as alert as a man who senses sudden danger. Something was wrong. Don Felix, instead of being in the dining room, was now about to be in the suite on the fourth floor playing the violin as was his daily habit. Did Guillermo know that Morgan had searched his room? That very morning he had the misnomer of musician was out?

The American twirled the glass between his fingers. He could feel the faint greasy film responsible for the cloudy appearance of the vessel.

The coating of oil was unmistakable as the glass revolved, he could see his own fingerprints outlined clearly on the curved surface.

Guillermo straightened that it? Morgan straightened a trifl in his chair. Was the whole setup engineered for the sole purpose of obtaining his fingerprints? His glass and Verde's—both smudged so that whatever De Nova had touched his fingers leave a mark.

"Before you leave Argentina, amigo," the garrulous Verde was babbling away, "you must visit me at my estate."

Morgan hardly heard the plump little man. Who was after his fingerprints? His glass and Verde's—both smudged so that whatever De Nova had touched his fingers leave a mark.

ADVERTISING IS CHIEF
SOURCE OF REVENUE

Publicity is a newspaper's stock in trade, and it is to the individual and the community's interest just as much as to the interest of the newspaper itself to see that a newspaper is adequately compensated for publicity matters, because if a newspaper is properly supported, it is able to render broader and more effective service to the community.

Free publicity should be no more expected from a newspaper than free advice from a lawyer, or free medical advice from a physician. Most publishers are always willing to go more than half way in giving publicity to deserving causes, but it takes money to conduct a newspaper and its advertising space is its chief source of revenue.

WHEN A SHIP GOES DOWN

When one of these mass-produced 10,350-ton cargo vessels goes to the bottom, something more than the $1,750,000 she cost is lost. The cargo carried in her holds would lead 250 freight cars, to say nothing of her deck load. It could include food enough to keep a city of 300,000 population going for a week, enough bombs to load 950 medium-sized bombers, wood products to build 90 four-roomed bungalows, mechanized equipment to equip an infantry battalion and aluminum to build 640 fighter aircraft. With her almost certainly would go at least a portion of her crew of seafaring men. The battle of the Atlantic is a struggle to save those ships and cargoes. Hitler's game is to sink as many of them as possible. His subs will not win the war for him, but they certainly have prolonged it. —Ex.

Sometimes you don't know how dumb a man until he speaks. A story from the last issue of Legionary comes to mind. A fellow got on the bus with a 100-lb bomb under his arm and sat down. "What's that you've got on your lap?" asked the conductor. "It's a delayed-action bomb I'm taking to the police station," came the answer. "Lame," said the conductor, "you don't want to carry a thing like that on your lap. Put it under the seat."

New C.P.R. Engines Keep Canada's War Goods Rolling

The first of 20 powerful new freight locomotives added by the Canadian Pacific Railway this year, Engine No. 5417 was delivered on March 31 and put into immediate service in the all-important job of keeping Canada's war materials moving on schedule. Completion of the contract held by Canadian Locomotive Company in Kingston, Ont., will bring to 84 the number of new locomotives added by the Canadian Pacific since the outbreak of the war, with all of them specially needed to meet business demands which in 1942 showed a 49.8 per cent. increase over 1939.

Their construction marking the first time of considerable interest, the new locomotives, so far as is known, the new Mikado-type locomotives also have in their makeup Canadian-made tender tank in Canada City for the first time. Before the war these materials came from the United States and from England but the substitutes were necessary to avoid delay in delivery of the locomotives which were ordered in the early days of the war.

COLLEGE PAPER BANS JOKES

Student editors of the Gateway, under-graduate newspaper of the University of Alberta, ran into grief recently over a special edition handled by students of one faculty, for the page of jokes carried offense. The responsible editors were censured. It was explained that the offending jokes had been blue-penciled in the galley proofs, but not one of the special editors followed through to see that the type was killed. Outcome is that the Camerrier, name under which the student humor section has been carried for over 25 years, has been deleted entirely from the paper. Elections also echoed in Montreal, where it is alleged one of the faculty groups doing a similar issue "lifted" the offending jokes; result temporary suspension of McGill Daily.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

THE STORY BEHIND MEAT RATIONING

Food is a weapon of war, and we must share our supplies with those who are fighting to keep the war from our shores. After all special wartime demands are taken care of, only one half of the meat produced in Canada will be available for ordinary domestic consumption at home.

Meat supplies for our Armed Forces must be maintained at all costs.

Great Britain has to depend more and more on Canada for supplies to maintain even its present low ration rate of 28 cents worth of meat per person, per week.

Canned meat is required in large quantities by the Red Cross to send to our boys who are prisoners of war.

Places like Newfoundland and the West Indies, which previously secured their meat from other sources—must now depend to a great extent on Canada.

The many extra ships of the United Nations now calling at Canadian ports, must be furnished with meat.

Since the war started the consumption of meat by civilians has increased in Canada. Great defense projects such as the Alcan Highway and the Shipwash Power Development have created new and large demands for meat in areas where practically no demand existed before.

Great Britain has to depend more and more on Canada for supplies to maintain even its present low ration rate of 28 cents worth of meat per person, per week.

Rationing will help prevent local meat shortages such as occurred last year from becoming widespread and continuous throughout the whole Dominion. The incentive for panic-buying which empties butcher shops early in the day, will be eliminated.

THE MEAT RATION WILL BE AMPLE FOR HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Fortunately, our meat production in Canada has increased. So, although only half our production will be available for civilian use, it will mean a reduction of only about 15% to 20% in the average household consumption.

The proposed ration of 2 lbs. (carcass weight) per person, per week, has been approved by the country's leading food and nutrition authorities, as ample for the health and nutrition standards of everyone—regardless of age or occupation.

DATES AND OTHER DETAILS REGARDING MEAT RATIONING—SOON TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN CANADA—WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER

The Merchant Navy

THE NAVY IS SOMETIMES called "The Silent Service," and this term describes well the great secrecy which surrounds all the operations of ships and sailors in time of war. It is generally known, however, that the British Navy has from the beginning had a vital part in defending the Allied cause. In addition, the service which the Merchant Navy has rendered in transporting men and materials has been enormous. There is universal recognition of the gallant conduct of the men of this branch of the service since the beginning of the war, and we all know that but for them Britain and her allies would not be as successfully on the offensive as they are today. Some very interesting figures on the work of the Merchant Navy have recently been released in England, and they tell a part of the story of this phase of the war at sea.

Figures Show Gigantic Task

Navy has taken transport, and figures are given to show the gigantic task which this represents. It is said that in 1942, one million tons of stores and one-half million men were sent around the Cape to various points. For the campaign in North Africa, the Merchant Navy transported over one million tons of stores, and one-half million men before November 1942. Other interesting statistics reveal that there are about two thousand British Merchant ships at sea all the time, yet in spite of intense enemy attack by mines, U-boats and aircraft, only one-half of one per cent of all these convoys fail to reach their destinations. Loss of life is also kept at a remarkably low figure. We are told that eighty-seven out of every hundred men are saved from ships which are damaged or sunk, and the loss of life in rafts and life boats is less than two per cent.

War Materials Carried Safely

In addition to carrying men and supplies for the British armies, the Merchant Navy has taken large quantities of war materials to other countries in the Commonwealth, and to Britain's Allies overseas. Between June, 1941, and December, 1942, 2,974 tanks and 3,080 airplanes were among the supplies shipped from Britain to Russia, and in that period nineteen large British convoys travelled safely to Russia over the dangerous northern route alone. Seven hundred officers of the Merchant Navy have been made members of the Officers and Commanders of the Order of the British Empire and 2,551 officers and men have received orders and decorations for gallant conduct. Among them are two hundred and twenty-four British Merchant sailors.

The valuable contribution of this branch of the service to the successful conduct of the war has been summed up by a British writer in the following words: "Without the Merchant Navy, Great Britain would have come perilously near to starvation, her armies could never have been supplied, nor could the products of her factories ever have reached her allies overseas."

TRAINING IN EATING

AS CHILDREN GROW out of babyhood they enter a very important period in their lives, the one in which they acquire both the social and personal habits which will affect their civilized life. Among other things to be learned at this time is the art of eating the proper foods.

AS EVERY MOTHER knows this is sometimes a major problem. It should be approached with patience and ingenuity for it must be solved if the child is to grow up strong and healthy.

TWO SIMPLE RULES should always be observed. First, there should be the discussion and training of the child and older children at the table, or in the home, on the kind of personal likes or dislikes in the matter of food. Second, as the child becomes interested in his food he should be told why each item is good for him.

FOR THE REST—introduce each new food in very small amounts until the child has developed a taste for it. A little difference in flavoring, a few drops of salt, mixing a new food with an accustomed one (as chopped spinach with mashed potato) may make all the difference in the child's reaction.

SOME CHILDREN like hot foods, some cold and a little juggling will sometimes save the mother a lot of worry and the child unnecessary correction.

Pet Or Pest?

The House Spider Is Said To Kill Flies And Moths

Now that spring house-cleaning has been completed, housewives will be particularly conscious of new cobwebs which appear. Cob-webs in houses are made by two species of spiders, according to T. B. Kurata, the spider expert of the Royal Ontario Museum. Although both kinds make an irregular, tangled, silken web in corners and crevices of buildings, one species is usually much more plentiful indoors and can well claim to be the Domestic Spider. Its body, which is slightly less than $\frac{1}{4}$ inch long, varies in color from a dirty white, with a few dark spots, to almost black. It wraps its eggs in a dense silken case and hangs it from the web. This spider is quite harmless. In fact, Mr. Kurata would like to convince housewives that it is somewhat beneficial because it preys on insects such as the domestic fly and the clothes moth. He keeps one domestic spider in his own kitchen for observation. Most persons, however, regard the dust-gathering webs a nuisance. According to your point of view, then, the domestic spider is either a pet or a pest.

Take Time To Play

People In Britains Do Not Neglect Opportunities For Relaxation

The Huron Expositor, Sarnia, says: Possibly no people in any country in the world have had their mode of living more greatly changed by the war than have the people of Britain.

To other Allied country, at least, has the war taken away complete control over a man's time and his energies, and in no place in the world has that time and energy been more cheerfully surrendered to the country.

But the people of that country have not forgotten how to play and when the opportunity offers no people put their whole heart into it as the British do.

That fact was evidenced on Saturday, when 105,000 people attended the annual England-Scotland football game in Glasgow.

Rheumatic heart disease is said to occur more frequently among fair-haired people than among dark-haired people.

R.A.F. Man Taught Cairo Chef How To Make Pancakes

Some months ago, says the Sheffield Telegraph, a Sheffield man walked into a Cairo cafe and said, "I would like some pancakes, please."

The proprietor was puzzled. "What are pancakes?" he asked.

"Can you tell me?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the Sheffielder. "You show me how to make them if you will let me."

And so a busy trade in pancakes for the British troops was started.

The Sheffielder, we are told, was Corporal George Simpson, R.A.F.

Studies by the National Safety Council show that it takes nine times as long to stop your car on ice as it does on dry concrete pavement.

Youngsters and grown-ups, too, love Nabisco Shredded Wheat and shredded bread. And right along with what our North American soldiers eat are whole grain cereals and fresh fruits. Used To Wide Vision

One Reason Why Prairie Boys Feel Affinity With Sea

Boys born in the prairie land unconsciously may feel an affinity with the wide vision. The winds that sweep across the vast plains are in their blood. The prairie boys after all, much like those that sweep across the mighty main. The sailors who fall from the prairies are more likely to feel at home on the waste of waters than lads who come from the cloistered valleys of Eastern Ontario, where hills and woodlands draw the horizon close. There is a fact of nature that links together the prairies and the sea and that makes of many a young plainman a potential mariner.

Stepping Stone Islands Have To Be Cleared First

London.—Attention is focusing increasingly on the Mediterranean stepping stone islands, some of which the Allies are expected to clear out before launching their anticipated assault on the soft underbelly of the Axis.

The chief stepping stones include Sicily, which bristles with Axis air bases and is regarded as the main concentration point for Axis air power in the central Mediterranean. A mere glance at the map makes it appear almost inevitable that the Allies will attack Sicily before invading the toe of the Italian boot.

Another stepping stone is Pantelleria, midway between Cape Bon and Sicily and the main protection point in Axis efforts to control traffic through the narrow Sicily strait. However, Pantelleria never has been regarded as important to the Axis, for instance, Malta has been to the Allies.

Another and even smaller island is Lampedusa, which lies about 75 miles to the east and the half way point between Sousse and Sfax on the Tunisian coast. However, there is no apparent necessity to clear out Lampedusa before attacking Sicily as it never has bulked large in tactical operations in that region.

Sardinia is another major island objective and the concentrated Allied bombardment of Cagliari shows its importance as a reinforcement station for the Axis. However, it would be wholly possible for the Allies to sidestep Sardinia during the initial phase of the coming attack and concentrate instead on Pantelleria and Sicily.

Farther east lies the whole complex of island groups which presumably must be cleared out before the Allies invade Greece, Yugoslavia or Bulgaria.

The closest Axis targets for the Allies are Crete and the Dodecanese group. Crete is the main stepping stone in the Axis air ferry system for bringing planes south through the Balkans and then west through the Mediterranean to the central Mediterranean theatre. It also is a formidable obstacle a short distance away to Greece and Yugoslavia.

Twelve Dodecanese islands in all hug the Turkish coast, some only a stone's throw from Turkish territory. The islands are mountainous and the problem of attack is similar to that which the Nazis faced at Crete.

AIR CADETS

Summer Camps To Be Held At Various Training Centres

Winnipeg (R.C.A.F. News Service)—Canada's future sky warriors, trim, smart air cadets, 3,000 strong, in No. 2 Training Command, Royal Canadian Air Force, will get a full-dress inspection within the next six weeks consisting of hand-to-hand combat.

Proof of the vigorous expansion of air cadet squadrons in the Command is the announcement that 47 squadrons will be inspected—a long stride from this time last year when there were only 17 squadrons in the command.

Flight-Lieut. H. V. Bell and Flying Officer J. S. Hughes, Command cadet officers, will take the tour of inspection. Wherever possible, air cadet squadrons will be reviewed by the commanding officer of the nearest Royal Canadian Air Force station. Squadrons have been advised to have their units in readiness for the inspection itinerary.

Air Cadet squadrons in many of the smaller localities throughout the Command are playing an important part in simulating interest in the cadets by providing entertainment for the public with their bands. For example, at Roland, Manitoba, the band of the air cadets plays at the theatre, skating rink, concert, so forth. Many of the regular citizen's bands, hard hit by enlistments, have had to break up. The air cadets often fill in this gap by raising bands of their own, and they are quite capable musicians too.

There are nearly 20 Polish squadrons in Britain now.

French fighter pilots, operating from British bases, destroyed 273 German planes. Belgium now has more pilots operating in Britain and Africa than she had before the German invasion. They have won 10 D.F.C.'s.

The Czechs, who have three fighter squadrons, two bomber squadrons and a coast command squadron, have won 47 British decorations. The Norwegians flying in Britain have accounted for 45 enemy aircraft, while Netherlands fliers won five British awards.

London.—The admiralty said that the navies of the German-occupied countries which are fighting with the United Nations total 220 combat ships and 26,700 men.

The Royal Netherlands navy leads with 65 ships and 6,850 men.

Others include: Fighting French, 49 ships and 6,150 men; Norwegian, 53 ships and 6,000 men; Greek, 33 ships and 5,450 men; Polish, 12 ships and 2,600 men; Yugoslav, three ships and 200 men; Belgian, seven ships and 1,800 men.

The ships range from cruisers down to minuscule vessels.

It was announced that a Danish naval force had been formed to join the Allied forces.

De Gaulle Insists On City As Meeting Place With Giraud

London.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle voiced again his willingness to hold an immediate conference with Gen. Henri Giraud in North Africa, but implied that he is insisting on Algiers as the meeting place.

Frenchmen who escaped from the continent to London in the past month, the Fighting French leader said the French national committee has many times made known it is at Algiers, the capital of the empire, that broad agreements ought to be made and consultations held which are necessary for the establishment of joint central authority."

CONSERVING MEAT

Approximately 20,000,000 Pounds Saved In Year By Meatless Tuesdays

Tuesday—Ottawa—A prices board spokesman said that Canada's first "meatless Tuesdays" conserved sufficient meat to feed a large British battle ship for four months at sea.

The spokesman estimated that on one "meatless day" diners in public eating places contributed more than 350,000 pounds of meat to vital purposes. "Meatless Tuesdays" throughout the year, he said, will save approximately 20,000,000 pounds of meat.

Gallant Airmen Of Small Allies Win Decorations

London.—Airmen of the many squadrons of the free forces, Polish, Czech, Fighting French, Netherlands, Norwegians and Belgian squadrons, have won more than 200 British decorations, chiefly D.F.C.'s and F.F.M.'s.

They have had part in virtually all Britain's aerial activity, the defense of Britain, sweeps over France and Belgium, anti-submarine patrols, shipping "strikes," and bombing raids over Germany and the occupied countries.

Nearly all these air heroes to whom British awards have been made anonymous because they still have relatives living in Nazi-occupied countries, are Americans, though those who have been named are Wing Cmdr. Le Roy du Vivier, D.F.C., Belgian fighter pilot, who was the first Allied airman to take command of a British squadron; Commandant Jean Morlaix, D.S.O., D.F.C. and bar, a French "ace" with 21 planes to his credit, and the renowned "intruder" pilot from Czechoslovakia, Flt. Lt. Kari Kuttelwascher, D.F.C. and bar. "Kutt" has 15 planes downed at night, three in daylight.

The Polish air force, largest of all the Continental Allied air forces, has won more British decorations than all the rest put together, more than 120. They have destroyed 509 German aircraft and one squadron alone has shot down 170, while Polish bomber squadrons have been on all the important raids and made more than 5,000 sorties.

There are nearly 20 Polish squadrons in Britain now.

French fighter pilots, operating from British bases, destroyed 273 German planes. Belgium now has more pilots operating in Britain and Africa than she had before the German invasion. They have won 10 D.F.C.'s.

The Czechs, who have three fighter squadrons, two bomber squadrons and a coast command squadron, have won 47 British decorations. The Norwegians flying in Britain have accounted for 45 enemy aircraft, while Netherlands fliers won five British awards.

ARRIVE IN BRITAIN

R.C.A.F. Draft Of Reinforcements Represents Most Of Canada

London.—Arrival in Britain of a draft of reinforcements for the R.C.A.F. overseas has been disclosed.

The airmen, representing nearly every corner of Canada, included pilots, observers, navigators, bombardiers, gunners, wireless air gunners and radio mechanics.

As the air crews piled out of their ships they were unanimous in naming Berlin as the place they would like to attack first when they are posted to operational duties.

One newspaperman among the party was F.O. Bill Dumdad, Toronto, formerly of Moose Jaw and Regina press relations officer and former Canadian Press staff man.

Former sportmen included P.D. Don Wickens, member of the Moose Jaw Canucks, Saskatchewan junior hockey champions.

FRONTIER OPENED

Berne.—Two hundred Swiss caught in France by the sudden closing of the border April 25 by Italian occupation authorities were able to return as the frontier was opened. There has been no explanation for the closing.

Grenadiers Inspected By Princess Elizabeth

Princess Elizabeth, elder daughter of King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, is shown inspecting the Grenadier Guards, famed regiment of which she is colonel. The princess wears the regimental cap badge in her hat. She was 17 years old on April 22.

Make Your Dollars Fight

This dramatic pose of pounding fingers at the telegraph instrument is symbolic of the messages which will be sent by hundreds of telegraph operators over Canadian wires during the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. Ninety two thousand Canadian National Railways employees across the Dominion have already received a similar message from their Chairman and President, R. C. Vaughan, appealing to them to "Back the attack and support the Fourth Victory Loan."

Group Affected By Transfer Of Workers Small

Ottawa—Selective Service Director Arthur MacNamara told The Canadian Press: "Your guess is as good as mine" when asked if he had any idea of the number of men who will be affected by the order providing for the possible compulsory transfer to essential employment of workers now engaged in some 30 occupations or industries regarded as non-essential.

He said, however, that workers in the industries designated in the order represented only a "small percentage" of the population.

"There are 350,000 men in Canada who had been granted postponement on medical grounds," he added. "Our purpose is to go through these 350,000, and our next move will apply to a much larger group."

The selective service department did not anticipate that there will be much trouble in replacing the workers affected by the first order with women or men outside the age groups designated in mobilization regulations.

Groups covered by the order include those in any occupation or directly associated with entertainment, including bowling alleys, pool rooms, film agencies, motion picture companies and theatres.

A department spokesman said no hard-and-fast ruling could be given as to whether those in the radio industry would be classified as in an occupation directly associated with entertainment. He said each case would have to be judged on its merits.

For instance, a full-time entertainer on the radio would probably be subject to the order. But a station manager, technician or a full-time announcer would probably be considered as coming under the communications industry and thus would not be affected.

Canada Urged To Arrange For More Settlers

Ottawa.—Assisted mass immigration of British settlers to Canada immediately the war is over was advocated here by Garfield Weston, 45-year-old Canadian-born member of the British House of Commons.

In an interview with The Canadian Press Mr. Weston said Canada had so far failed to impress upon British people the opportunities here for them to establish successful and happy homes.

He said Britain and Canada should begin at once to plan "with care and thoroughness" to promote the transfer of millions of British people to Canada, and for the integration of British and Canadian business interests.

A few weeks ago he put that latter theory into practice when he purchased from Viscount Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, the latter's holdings in the Eddy Paper Mills in Hull, Que. The sum involved is estimated around $5,000,000.

"I am definitely for an assisted immigration plan," he said. "Almost anything we could do to get several million English, Scotch and Irish settlers into Canada would be worthwhile, even if we had to support them the first year."

With Canada now experienced in raising and spending great sums for the war effort, the cost of an immigration scheme would be "a mere bagatelle," said Mr. Weston.

"We complain about high taxes in Canada. The only way to cut them down is to double the population."

DISCUSSION FORBIDDEN

New York.—Romanian military authorities have issued orders forbidding public discussion of military or political affairs, the Bucharest radio announced in a domestic broadcast. Violations of the decree may be punished by "correctional imprisonment" ranging from six months to four years.

HONORED BY THE KING

Moscow.—King George VI of Great Britain has awarded high decorations to some 30 Russian generals, lesser army officers and naval heroes "for courage and valor in carrying out assignments" on the front and on convoy duty between Britain and Russia.

The Canadian-made Catalina coastal patrol bomber has nine miles of wiring and generates enough electricity to meet the needs of a small block of dwellings. Victory Bonds make them possible.

James McLean, one of the best known citizens of the district, passed away suddenly from a heart attack at Michel on Wednesday of last week. James came out from Nova Scotia away back in 1898 and obtained a position as mine worker at Fernie with the Crows' Nest Pass Coal Company. A few years ago he gave up that job to contest the Fernie provincial riding for the Liberal party, being defeated by Tom Upshaw. He again took on the job of superintendent of the coke ovens at Michel, which position he had held ever since. The remains were laid to rest at Fernie on Friday forenoon. He is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter. Just a few days prior to his death word was received that another son, James Robert, was killed in action.

Asked by her husband if she was going to quit driving from the back seat this year, she replied: "Yes, I'm going to sit up in front with you, so that you can hear me better."

For many years past, people of Canada had to somewhat consider the bootleggers. Now a greater part of that worry seems to turn to the meat-tappers. But, locally, we would not lay such a charge.

The new fishing regulations as affecting South Alberta streams, as published in part in the daily papers, are very hard to understand, and unless made clearer will result in some innocent chaps getting into trouble.

The Crows' Nest Pass Choral Society will stage a grand concert in the Columbus Hall, Blairmore, on the 9th of Wednesday, May 26th, commencing at 7:30. Bear this affair in mind, if you are a lover of real musical talent.

Canada's first meatless Tuesday is estimated to have saved 350,000 pounds of meat, or sufficient to stock a large battlefield for five months at sea. Meatless Tuesdays throughout the year are expected to save 20,000,000 pounds for vital purposes. By cutting consumption of meat, Canada ensures sufficient supplies for her sons in the armed forces in Great Britain, as well as the British civilian population.

Can an able-bodied and active man keep able-bodied and active on two pounds of meat a week? is asked. Correspondents who have been attached to the staff of General Sir Bernard Montgomery during the victorious march of the 8th Army across North Africa say that Monty, one of the most active men in existence, eats much less than two pounds of meat a week. In fact, they say Sir Bernard seldom eats meat at all.

For the big offensive, our boys will need plenty of collapsible assault boats. They cost $225 each, and your Victory Bond investments will buy them.
